FOREWORD

Gathering and assembling the data on the Tillinghast Family has been a real pleasure. However, I deeply regret that so very many Tillinghasts were omitted through lack of information. I hope that this incomplete record will inspire some one to take on this unfinished task.

The 300 years since 1643 has seen enormous increase in number of Tillinghast families while their stamina has not in the least decreased. Perhaps they followed the law of Life as prescribed by Moses.

> "You must keep his statutes and commandments which I enjoin on you today, that you and your children after you may prosper and that you may have long life on the land which the Lord, your God, is giving you forever." (Deuteronomy. Chap. 4, p. 219, New American Bible.)

May I also express my gratitude to the many dear workers who assisted me in this study.

PREFACE

It has been customary for the Tillinghast Family in the U.S. to label Elder Pardon as 1st generation and number their descent in generations from him. However, Elder Pardon was the 3rd generation of the known and recorded Tillinghast Family. Since the records of Pardon's father and grandfather are available, I began the record with John, who was born about 1560. Prior to this date, the records lay hidden awaiting the diligent search of a genealogist. The only clue I had for an earlier date was from an entry in the Streat Parish Church Record. "Robert Tillinghast the Elder, buried 1613." This Robert may have been John's father.

I hope that adding two generations will not unduly confuse the reader. Just subtract two and you will have the old familiar generation.

Tillinghast Family

1 John Tillinghast, b.-d. 1624, m. 1597—Alice Pardon.[1]

Alice was the daughter of Gregory and Alice (Payne) Pardon.

John received his B.A. from Cambridge University in 1581-2; his M.A. in 1585. Ordained priest, Apr. 5, 1590; Rector of Streat 1593-1624. Buried in Streat, March. 16, 1624.[2] The following is John's Will made Dec. 16, 1623.

2 Pardon[2] (John[1]) 1600- m. 1622. Sarah Browne.

Sarah Browne was the dau. of Benjamin and Sarah (Leachford) Browne. Pardon, the eldest son of John, was a cooper by trade. Weis in his "Ancestral Roots of 60 American Colonists" recorded Elizabeth Tichborne as the wife of Pardon. However, in his second edition, Weis corrected this statement. This correction was further confirmed by John G. Hunt (see article in American Genealogist 1961-Vol. 37-38, p. 34). He inserted a copy of the will of Benjamin Browne wherein he mentions his daughter Sarah and son-in-law Pardon Tillinghast. Children of Pardon and Sarah:

Pardon Tillinghast Family

3 Pardon Tillinghast[3] (Pardon[2] John[1]) 1622-1718 m. 1654 1st wife Sarah Butterworth and m. 1664 2nd wife, Lydia Masters Taber.

Sarah Butterworth b. 1633-d. 1661 was the dau. of John Butterworth, founder of the 1st Baptist Church in Swanzy, R.I.

Lydia Masters Taber was the dau. of Philip and Lydia (Masters) Taber.

Pardon was also a cooper, an industry of great antiquity. As with all trades or industries of the middle ages, control was through guilds. It is difficut to assign an exact date for the origin of the "Coopers Guild," but in 1501 the guild was granted a charter by King Henry VII. Due to piracy on the high seas no cooper wished to risk his consignment to one vessel; so marks or brands were allotted to each cooper, thereby enabling him to funnel his wares thru many channels.[8]

Pardon sailed from Alfriston, England in 1643. The "Protestation Oath Requirement" was evidently a deciding factor. In 1641 the House of Commons passed a resolution requesting the following Oath to be taken by all:

> "I do in the presence of God promise, vow and protest to maintain and defend . . . the true Reformed Protestant Religion as expressed in the Doctrine of the Church of England."
> . . . "And therefore doth declare that whatever person soever shall not take the Protestation is unfit to beare office in church or commonwealth."[9]

Pardon was not a man to be denied participation in church or state. He entered the Providence Plantation Colony by way of Connecticut in 1645. The Early Records of the Town of Providence 19th of the 11th month has this entry on page 29:

> "We whose names are hereafter subscribed having obtained a free grant of 25 acres do thankfully accept same. Signed John Browne, Pardon Tillinghast, Willard Fenner, John Jones, etc."

Above is regarded as the first recorded signature of Pardon in his new home. In 1658, Pardon was admitted as freeman in the colony.

In the government of the colony Pardon served continuously as listed:

1687-Overseer of the Poor

1672-1680-90-94-97 and 1700-Deputy of the general colonial assembly.

1688-91, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 1700-07. Town Councilman. 1707-1711 Town Treasurer.[10]

In the industrial field Pardon was active as cooper, merchant, shipowner and trader. Also, the Early Town Records reveal Pardon as active in the real estate and loan business:

In 1667 Pardon bot of John Steere land, fence and dwelling house.

In 1698 Pardon sold land to Walker.

In 1704 Pardon bot land of John Daily.

In 1680 Pardon was granted the right to buy a spot of land 20 feet square on which to erect a warehouse with privilege of building a wharf. And in the same year he built the first Providence wharf.[11] From this wharf he carried on as merchant, extensive commercial transactions to colonial ports and the Indies. The strangest transaction recorded in the Town Meeting of 1693 was as follows: Pardon lent £35 in silver to Robert Kilton, to be repaid at the end of 7 years. Pardon to have use of Robert Kilton's house and orchard during the seven years. If the debt is repaid the house is to be returned to owner in good condition. If the debt is not repaid the house and orchard becomes the property of Pardon.

In the religious field, Pardon was an earnest co-worker with Roger Williams who founded the 1st Baptist church in Providence in 1636. However, in 1639 Roger Williams withdrew from the church and became a "Seeker." The Seekers were a Puritan group founded early in the 7th century and referred to as the "Scattered Flock." They hold that the true religion has not yet been revealed. Religious service abandoned by Roger Williams was carried on by the remaining members. They met in fair weather in a grove and in inclement weather in the homes of the members. In 1700, Pardon requested of the Town Council[12] the right to buy a piece of land 30 feet square on which to build a meeting house. This meeting house, which was built in the shape of a hay cap with a chimney in the middle, was deeded to the members in 1711. That Pardon shared none of the doctrinal doubts attributed to Roger Williams is attested to in his deed:

> "Memorandum before the ensealing here of"[13]
> "I do declare that whereas it is above mentioned to wit: To the church and their successors in the same faith and order; I do intend by the words, same faith and order, such as do truly believe and practice the six principles of the doctrine of Christ mentioned in Heb. 6:2. Such as after manifestation of repentance and faith are baptized in water and have hands laid on them."

While not an ordained minister Pardon became the 6th pastor of the Baptist church, and served without pay from 1681 until 1718. In 1719 the Rev. Ebenezer Jenckes, an ordained minister, took the pastorate.

The Preamble of Pardon's Will[14] shows his deeply religious nature. It reads:

> "I do bequeath my life and spirit into the hands of the Fountain of Life and Father of Spirits from whom I have received it and my body to the dust from whence it came in hope of a resurrection to eternal life."

To his sons Pardon, Philip, and Benjamin £50 each. To son Joseph, my present dwelling house and lot after his mother's decease. To my five daughters: Mary Carpenter, Abigail Sheldon, Mercy Power, Hannah Hale and Elizabeth Taber £10 each. To each grandchild 5s.

4 John[4] (Pardon[3] Pardon[2] John[1]) 1657-1690 m. Isabelle Sayles 1633-1716.

Isabelle was the dau. of John and Mary (Williams) Sayles and granddaughter of Roger Williams.[16]

John the 1st son of Pardon, was born in Newport but moved to Providence with his father. He was made freeman there in 1677. Later he moved to Newport and was made a freeman in 1684. John was a cooper and took an active interest in local government. The Town Meeting of 1690 chose John as Deputy to the General Assembly, however, he died before he could serve.

John has perhaps the shortest chapter in the Tillinghast Family History, since the name did not extend beyond the 3rd generation. However, his descendants live numerously through his daughter, Mary, who married Richard Ward and had 14 children.

John died at the early age of 33 and his will probated in 1690[17] gives to wife all estate for life; to son Pardon certain land and part of house and warehouse; to second son, Charles, the rest of the land and housing at death of mother. Hannah and Mary £10 each at age, or at marriage. Isabelle, John's widow, deeded in 1716 to son Charles (her son Pardon being deceased) certain lands and warehouse.

Children of John and Isabelle:

i Pardon died young.

ii Charles m. 1711, Elizabeth Cranston, the dau. of Samuel and Judith Parrot Cranston. They had one daughter Judith who married in 1738, John Freebody. The name of Charles appears frequently in the town records. However, another Charles, son of Philip, just 6 years younger lived in Providence. I think that the items: Charles on Grand Jury 1687; chosen Constable 1719; led an expedition to Block Island 1690,[18] may refer to the above named Charles.

5 Pardon Jr.[4] (Pardon[3] Pardon[2] John[1]) 1668-1743 m. 1st wife, Mary Keech 1670-1726 G.S.I.; m. 1728 2nd wife, Sarah Ayers, 1678-1742, G.S.I.

Mary Keech was the dau. of George and Mary Keech of Newport, (Austin 33 Colonial Famalies, p. 61.)

Sarah Ayers the 2nd wife of Pardon, was born in North Kingston. (Vital Statistics of Kent Co., Warwick, p. 114.)

Pardon Jr. and wife Mary moved to E.G. in 1699. There he purchased 70 acres, a house and orchard from Margaret Shippee located in Frenchtown. And the name is all that remains of the tragic attempt by the French Huguenots to settle there. Without clear title to the land, they became involved in legal entanglements, which, augmented by the language barrier, and rough treatment by the English settlers, drove the unhappy French to a settlement in Mass. A few remained and their descendants married into the Tillinghast, Fry, Whipple, and Gardiner families.

In the year 1709, 13 men of the E.G. Colony (Pardon Jr. was one of the 13) purchased 35,000 acres of vacant land on the western border for £1100. Each one of the 13 kept 1000-acres for himself and the remaining 22,400-acres were sold to settlers in lots of 175, 350, or 700-acres. By the year 1740, the township was divided into East and West Greenwich. This 35,000-acre plot became W.G.[20]

Pardon Jr. was a farmer and his farm was known as the "Mansion Estate." In this home he served as Justice of the Peace, 1705-1710. In the clonial days, court sessions were held in the homes of the justices. He served as Deputy to the General Assembly for 11 terms, from 1702-1725.[21]

Since Pardon had acquired much and had also many descendants to remember, his will was long and detailed. Probated in 1643, the will specified—> to son John £100; to son Joseph £250, a pair of oxen and Negro Jack to serve him six years then be given his freedom; to Philip all the homestead after paying legacies as follows £30 to Thomas and Pardon each, and £500 for other legacies; to dau. Mary Mawney £250, 2 cows and 2 silver spoons; to son-in-law Peter Mawney £50; to grand-daughters Elizabeth Olney, Lydia Mawney, Mercy Fry and Mary Mawney £50 each; to Mary Spencer, Ann, Lydia and Amy Tillinghast £30 each; to Wealthian £200, a feather bed and 2 cows; to Elizabeth Bentley, Sarah and Amy Mawney each a feather bed; to Grandsons Benjamin, Charles, Thomas, and Joseph £30 each; to Pardon Mawney £100; to John and Peter Mawney £150 each; to brethern of Baptist church £25 and a silver cup; to the poor of the Baptist church £25; to grandson Pardon the farm on which he dwells—(Son of John).[22]

i Joseph 1689-1767 m. Margaret— They had a dau. Elizabeth 1716-1770 who m. in 1732 William Bentley 1716-1800. They had 2 children, Elizabeth and Tillinghast Bentley; he married Sarah Thomas. Beyond this brief record—no further records of Joseph are available. v. 5, p. 311 of Virkus.) See Appendix p. 200.

iii Mary 1694-1726 G.S.I. m. Peter Mawney 1689-1750. Peter Mawney was the son of Moses LeMoine one of the French Huguenots that remained in Frenchtown. This name became angelicized to Mawney. They had 5 children:

6 Philip[4] (Pardon[3] Pardon[2] John[1]) 1669-1732. m. 1692 Martha Holmes 1674-1728.

Martha Holmes was the dau. of Jonathan and Sarah (Borden) Holmes and granddaughter of Obadiah the 1st Settler of that name in R.I.[25]

Philip, the third son of Elder Pardon, was a true copy of his illustrious parent. He served the local government constantly. He was Justice of the Peace 1705-1725 inclusive; Representative to the General Assembly, 1707-1730; Member of the Town Council, 1719-1730; Assistant to the Governor of the Colony in 1714; and Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, 1729.[26]

In business, Philip concentrated on shipping and leased his cooper warehouses to Brown and Ives. He became very wealthy, and about 1710 replaced his residence with a mansion. The Rev. F. Denison in his article 'Tillinghast House' which appeared in the "Providence Journal" of May 1881, described this home—a few excerpts taken from it.

> Paragraph 3 Line 5—"Philip became a merchant and rose to possess large wealth. He seems to have lived first in the house just north of the one of which we speak. He built his new house (now No. 299) in the days of his success and opulence, which is separated from the older home by a gangway known as Tillinghast Alley and which was originally lined with warehouses and cooper shops. He bequeathed his old house to his son Charles, and the new house came into the hands of his son William"... Paragraph 5—"Entering the antique house, we find several curiosities. The parlor still reveals its ancient magnificence. The South side of the room is wholly of pilasters and panel work. The fireplace is adorned with 52 blue scripture pictured Dutch tiles, each one having its proper Scripture text that is illustrated. The first paper on the walls was imported from France. The floor was painted in imitation of mosaic work. The huge kitchen in the basement has a fireplace that measures eight by five feet and four feet deep with a big oven in the back." Paragraph 6—"Five generations of Tillinghasts occupied this princely home."

Philip's will, proved 1732, contains the following provisions; to son Charles the dewlling house where he dwells; to son Philip, John, Jonathan, and Pardon lands in the new purchase west of E.G.; to son Samuel half a lot at Cold Spring; to son William land at Providence Neck; to son Elisha land at Tuncowotten; to son Philip land on west side of Town St. and £250; to Dau. Martha Potter £150; to son Charles £100; to sons John, Jonathan, and Pardon £250 each; to sons William, Samuel, and Elisha £300 each; to daughters Lydia, Sarah, Anne and Mary £150 each; Inventory £4964 including bonds, notes and household goods.[27]

7 Benjamin[4] (Pardon[3] Pardon[2] John[1]) 1672-1726, m. 1692 Sarah Rhodes d. 1735.

Sarah Rhodes was the dau. of Malachi and Mary (Carder) Rhodes and great granddaughter of Zachariah Rhodes. The Rhodes lived in Pawtucket and were noted for their numerous cotton mills, being referred to as the Rhodes Manufacturing Dynasty.[29]

Benjamin, 4th son of Elder Pardon, was a merchant. In the early Town Records,[30] Benjamin is recorded as on jury duty 1697 and 1719; sealer and packer 1724 and 1725; granted the privilege of building a wharf 1697.

Benjamin, too, has a very short chapter in the Tillinghast family history. As with his brother John, his descendants are through his daughters. Elisha his son died at age 17, and his sons, Benjamin and James in their early 30's.

Benjamin's will proved Oct. 1726, gave to son Benjamin Jr. land south end of Providence Neck; to son James, land at Fox Hill and Thatch Cove and £100 at coming of age; to son Elisha 2 lots on Town St. at coming of age; to five daughters £200 each; to wife Sarah use of dwelling house, shop warehouse and land until son Elisha is of age.[31]

  i′ Sarah 1750, never married.
  ii′ Solomon 1753—He was a soldier in the Revolution and Professor of Botany and Medicine at Brown University. In 1777, he married Elizabeth Russell and they had 8 children: Sophie, Elizabeth, Cornelia, Sophie 2nd, Sophie 3rd, William, Solomon, and Henry.[33] iii′ William 1753 was a soldier in the Revolution and was a prisoner on the Old Jersey in 1780. He died unmarried in 1786.
vii Elisha 1712-1729.
viii Lydia 1714-1807 m. 1735, Christopher Arnold. 3 children: Sarah, James and Christopher.

8 Joseph[4] (Pardon[3] Pardon[2] John[1]) 1677-1763. m. 1st wife 1703, Freelove Stafford 1680-1711. m. 1720, to Mary Hendron (nee Paris) 1697-1765.

Freelove Stafford was the dau. of Samuel Stafford of Newport and Mercy Westcott, and the granddaughter of Stukely Westcott who came to the Providence Plantation in 1639. (J. Russell Bullock, "Stukely Westcott and Some of His Descendants." p.).

Mary Hendron (nee Paris) was the dau. of Abraham Paris of Barbadoes Island. (Austin Gen. Dict. of 33 Families. p. 204). But this statement is put in question by an insert in vol. 2, p. 350, Pa. Magazine, 1878, requesting information on the Paris family that came from Dublin, Ireland about 1700. "Mary who came over when very young, married 1st a Mr. Hendron, and 2nd Joseph Tillinghast."

Joseph, the 9th child and 5th son of Elder Pardon, was a merchant apparently in Tiverton, R.I. The Town Records of Tiverton list Joseph as Town Treasurer, 1711-1722; Assessor, 1724-25;

Member of the Petty Jury, 1711-14 and 16; also Selectman. (From D.A.R. chapter records 1936 "Town Records of Tiverton, R.I., 1697-1732, Vol. 1, p. 60.)

In 1702, he bought of Daniel Brown a 90 acre lot in E.G. . . . But in July, 1704, he sold the same to his brother Pardon. Also in June 1726 he sold a six acre lot and house in Providence for consideration of £250. This was perhaps the property that his father, Pardon, had bequeathed to him in 1718.[34] He seemed to be in the sellers market, and his will does not specify any great accumulation.

His will is to be found in the Newport Historical Society and is dated 1762. In it he mentions his wife Mary, his daughters Lydia Almy, Ann Gardner, and Elizabeth Cozzens, his sons Joseph, Samuel, Nicholas, and Daniel; his granddaughters, Mary Barker, and Freelove Easton; and his grandsons, Nicholas Paris and Nathaniel Tweedy.[35]

Joseph Jr. is numbered after his younger brothers. He is the progenitor of the author's family line, and in this, both the male and female lines are used. Being not in accord with the other method, it is therefore placed out of order or at the end.

Part II

PREFACE — PART II

Part II begins with the 5th generation of the Tillinghast family. However, in this section each descendant will be treated as a unit and all of his known descendants given. The prospective readers of this book are all well versed on their own individual line or branch. Treating each name as it comes from the 5th generation on, will thereby provide them with their complete family line. Of elder Pardon's five sons I have records beyond the 5th generation for but three: Pardon Jr., Philip and Joseph.

From the 6th generation on, the families are numbered consecutively as they appear in the record.

Anne Waterman was daughter of Capt. John Waterman and Ann Olney Waterman (Donald Jacobus and Edgar Waterman, "The Waterman Family", V. III p. 51).

Abigail Thomas was a widow and born in North Kingston.

John Tillinghast was a wealthy merchant, a shipowner, a privateer, and a soldier. England with its merchantile theory of national ascendancy endeavored to monopolize colonial commerce. Confronted with the trade restrictions, retaliation was sought thru privateering. From 1700 to 1776 more than 180 commissions were issued to privateers from Newport (Newport Historical Magazine V. 2, No. 4, 1882). Among those commissioned were: Defiance 140 ton and 16 guns, John Tillinghast part owner; Sloop Reprisal 90 tons—12 guns, 90 men John Tillinghast mate; Sloop Independence 46 tons, 8 guns, 46 men, John Tillinghast, Capt.; Sloop Retaliation of Providence 12 guns, 70 men, John Tillinghast, Capt.

John also served as Justice of the Inferior Court of Newport Co.; was Ensign in the 3rd Co. of Exeter and on guard duty in 1764.[39] The R.I. Colonial Records list John as deputy from Newport in 1744, 1749, and assistant in 1752 and 1755.[40]

John built in 1760 the Tillinghast House of 142 Mill St. Newport, R.I. a fine example of colonial architecture.[41]

Hannah Stafford was the dau. of Lt. James Stafford of Warwick, R.I.

Pardon was the son of John and 1st wife Ann Green. He is known as "Molasses" Pardon because he was an importer of molasses, and as a result he became very wealthy. His grandfather, Pardon Jr., willed him a 260 acre farm in 1743 on which he made his home. Many more acres must have been purchased, since his family record states that he willed each child a farm, and he had nine children. Pardon was very active in the social, political and military life of the community. From the J. J. Smith[43] records he is listed as 1st Lieut. of the 1st. Co. of W.G. in 1746 and 1747; and as Justice of the Peace in W.G. 1757-1761 inclusive. J. R. Bartlett[44] lists him as Deputy W.G. 1760; Committee of Safety, 1766; director of lottery, 1792; Deputy of the General Assembly, 1782-83 and 1784-85.

Pardon died in his chair sitting by the fireplace. His daughter-in-law prepared the evening meal and when Pardon did not respond to her summons, she thought him asleep, but when she went to his chair to awaken him found that he had died.

Pardon and Hannah had 9 children:[45]

Honor Hopkins was the dau. of Samuel and Honor (Brown) Hopkins.[46]

Stukely was born in Warwick, but he and wife Honor lived and died in Exeter, about one mile from Pine Hill (Unpublished family records.) Stukely was listed as Ensign in 2nd Co. Exeter 1800-1801; Lieut. of same 1802-1803 and Capt. of 2nd Co. Exeter 1804.[47] The name Stukely is of Saxon derivation. In that tongue it was written Stycle (StiffClay) later it became Stucle then finally Stukely. (From Sir George Stuckly owner by succession of Hartland Abbey and Affeton Castle Worlington Devon England, the seat of the Stukelys of England.) The Westcote family of Sussesx England inter-married with the Stukely family. Stukely Westcott of this combined family immigrated to R.I. in 1636. Many marriages occurred between the Westcott and Tillinghast families, and thus the Tillinghasts inherited that harsh sounding name of Stukely.

About 1920, Isaac Fred made a trip to San Francisco and took time to go to Santa Rosa to visit his friend, Luther Burbank. He remained there several months working on experiments with Mr. Burbank. Charles lived at Quidnessett Neck, North Kingston, R.I. In 1775 he was appointed enlisting officer by the General Assembly of R.I.[63] Sadistic Tories of the community began underground resistance to enlistments. One evening a gang of Tories attacked Charles' 18 year-old son, John and beat him up so badly that he died shortly after from the effects. Soon after this, four masked Tories broke into the home of Charles and took him at gun point to Block Island, as their prisoner. There 17 days later he died from wounds and rough treatment. As the Tories were dragging Charles out, they ordered Abigail to make no report, light no lights, or she and her children would be burned. Undaunted, Abigail said, "Oliver Moon, I know you even if you are masked." Abigail gathered up the children and hid in a cornfield nearby. Allen, age 3, was missing. So with Amey, the baby, in her arms, Abigail returned to search in the dark for Allen. When she felt a tiny foot protruding from under the bed, she drew him out. His first words were "where's Daddy?"

Family of Philip and His Sons

10 Philip[5] (Pardon[4] Pardon[3] Pardon[2] John[1]) 1707-1787 m. 1733 Alice Thomas, 1713-1777; m. 1778 Judith Ayrault 1724-1806.

Alice Thomas was the dau. of Col. George and Alice Thomas. She was buried in the Tillinghast cemetery of Frenchtown.

Judith Ayrault, the second wife of Philip, was the dau, of Daniel and Mary Ayrault of Newport. Judith was buried in Wickford, R.I. (R.I. Genealogical Report Part I 1932, p. 126.)[87]

Philip inherited his father's farm the "Mansion Estates." Here he farmed and raised a family of 4 sons and one dau. All his children were by his first wife, Alice Thomas.

His will dated Jan. 1787, bequeathed 4/5 of the homestead to his son, George, and 1/5 to his dau. Mary Fry which at her decease was to go to her three daughters Mary Cannon, Lucretia, and Amy Fry. His four sons were to have the remainder of the estate.

143 Pardon[6] (Philip[5] Pardon[4] Pardon[3] Pardon[2] John[1]) 1736-1805 m. 1756 Ruth Fry 1734-1776.

Ruth Fry was the dau. of Thomas and Mary (Greene) Fry. Thomas Fry, the 1st, was born in Devonshire, England in 1632, son of John Fry who was a member of Parliament. (Austin, "Genealogical Dictionary of R.I.," p. 299.)

Pardon, the first child of Philip and Alice Hill, very likely spent his boyhood on the "Mansion Estates" farm as his father, Philip, inherited it in 1743 from his father, Pardon Jr. Pardon was listed as Justice of Peace in W.G. in 1757, 1758-1759 and 1761; also as Lieut. 1st Co. of W.G. in 1768.[88] Pardon was listed as preacher in 1780 of the Baptist church of Exeter. However, in 1832 Daniel was living in Madison Co., N.Y. It was from Nelson, Madison Co., N.Y. that Daniel applied for his Revolutionary War pension (File No. 11551). The pension record listed Daniel as Ensign of 1st Co. of Exeter in 1798; Lieut. for the same organization for 4 months; and Capt. for 3 months.

Nothing in these records state that Christopher is the son of Daniel, but his birth date and place of birth agree with the Tillinghast Family Bible in possession of John Fox Tillinghast. So we assume that both records refer to the same Christopher.

Joseph and His Family

16 Samuel[5] (Joseph[4] Pardon[3] Pardon[2] John[1]) 1724-1787.

Samuel, the 1st son of Joseph and his 2nd wife Mary Hendron, lived and died at Fully Mill in Warwick. He was a merchant.[128] The 1774 Census of R.I. by John Bartlett lists, on page 66, Samuel with a household of 5; two females over 16; one female under 16; one male over 16; and one male under 16.

His children:[129]

274 i Nicholas Paris 1742-1809.

Nicholas Paris apparently lived in Newport since his name appears frequently in both the family and community roles.

Civil and military lists[130] record Nicholas Paris as Justice of the Inferior Court of Common Pleas in 1774; inspector of the Nitre and Salt-peter works in 1775. He was reported as Deputy from Newport in 1783.[131]

Nicholas moved to Charleston Brooke Co., Va. 1798 and died there in 1809.

Nicholas had 7 children by his 1st wife, Catherine Taylor, and 3 by his 2nd wife Sarah Almy, but very few survived infancy.

17 Nicholas[5] (Joseph[4] Pardon[3] Pardon[2] John[1]) 1726-1797 m. 1st wife Susan Dyer; m. 1754 2nd wife, Joanna Jenckes, and m. 1762 3rd wife, Ruth Philips Edwards 1735-1809.

Susan Dyer was listed as the wife of Nicholas in the N.E. Geneal. and Hist. Society Record, V. 13, p. 282, and this constitutes the only record of this marriage.

Joanna Jenckes was the dau. of Daniel and Joanna (Scott) Jenckes. Joanna's ancestor Joseph Jenckes was born in Hammersmith, England in 1602, a member of an old Welsh family. By 1642 Joseph had established an iron works foundry at Lynn Mass. He reared 5 sons and 2 daughters. His son Joseph born in 1632 removed to Pawtucket, R.I. and married Esther Ballard. Their son, the Rev. Ebenezer (1669-1726) married Mary Butterworth. The Rev. Ebenezer succeeded Elder Pardon as minister in 1719. Joanna was grand-daughter of the Rev. Ebenezer. (Alonza Lewis. "History of Lynn, Mass." p. 84.)

Ruth Edwards, a widow, was the dau. of the Rev. George Philips of Watertown, Mass.

Nicholas while residing in Providence was a merchant. He served as Town Clerk 1755-1758; as Lieut. Gov. and as Judge. (Newport Hist. Magazine, V. 1, p. 156.) Nicholas was of the Sandemian religious sect whose main tenet was obedience to rulers. This may have clouded his true vision for, as a Tory, he suffered temporary imprisonment during the Revolution. (N.E. Geneal. and Hist. Society, V. 13, p. 282.)

In 1789, Nicholas and family moved to Taunton, Mass. In Taunton he was merchant, lawyer, and postmaster.

Nicholas has many descendants; thru his son Paris Jenckes, the branch is known as the Tillinghasts of Fayetteville, N.C. and thru his sons Joseph and Nicholas, the branch was of Taunton, Mass.

Elizabeth was the dau. of Benoni Pearce and sister of Oliver and Nathaniel Pearce.

Paris Jenckes, endowed with his mother's family name and also the family name of his paternal grandmother, lost his mother at birth. He was a merchant first in Providence, later in Albany, N.Y. then in Uxbridge, Mass. then finally in Fayetteville, N.C. where he remained permanently. Wm. Holroyd was his business associate. (Newport Hist. Magazine, V. 1, No. 3, p.)

Spangler, a descendant of Sarah, states that Joseph disinherited Sarah because of her marriage to Lemuel. However, Lemuel became both wealthy and prominent, while Joseph became impoverished, due to British occupancy of Newport, and accepted assistance from Sarah and Lemuel.[156]

Elizabeth was the granddaughter and sole heir of Elizabeth Anderson an aged widow who died in 1793. (Source: Anderson Will.)

Stukely or Pardon Stukely, as he was named, was born in Newport, R.I. He came to Savannah, Ga. in 1788 as an agent for Brown & Ives, a Providence firm. Pardon Stukely was reported as a lawyer by profession. Judging from scattered reports he did not seem to be an able or industrious business man For example: Columbian Museum and Savannah Advertiser, "May 11, 1802—Stukely Tillinghast on list of tax defaulters for 1801." The Georgia Gazette, May 2, 1793: "Sheriffs Sales of lots. The above four tracts and lot of land seized and taken under execution as the estate of Elizabeth Anderson, deceased."

The 1820 census lists Pardon Stukely and family on a farm in Burke Co., Georgia 6th District. This tract was formerly the property of Elizabeth's grandmother. But the Census of 1830 or 1840 failed to list him there. Also the biography of his son, Robert Lawrence, states that he moved with his parents to Savannah, Ga. in 1823.

Tillinghast Families of Long Island

This Tillinghast group were considered descendants of Pardon of Providence.

Since the lineage line was never ascertained, I listed them separately as the Tillinghasts of L.I.

Fortunately, the family records compiled by Frank Nash Tillinghast and stored in a trunk, were supplied by his daughter Esther. (See Appendix p. 200.)

Early East Hampton records place a Captain Joseph Tillinghast there in 1761 and a Captain Thomas Tillinghast there in 1763.

Captain Thomas married in 1763 Polly Parsons. They had 3 children, Thomas, John and Puah. (American Genealogist. V. 20, p. 154.) Puah married in 1793 Ebenezer Hedges. (East Hampton Records V. 5.) The 1800 Census records of East Hampton list:

(1) Thomas Tillinghast with a family of 4, one male 26-45; one female 16-26; and 2 females under 10.

(2) John Tillinghast and wife.

These 2 (Thomas and John) may have been sons of Capt. Thomas and Sally Parsons.

Church records of East Hampton have the following:

1772 Wife of Thomas Tillinghast died.

1786 Thomas Tillinghast baptized.

Captain Joseph Tillinghast is listed in the 1776 Census of East Hampton with a family of 7. (American Archives 4th series.

V. 6, Cols. 1236-1252.) This agrees with his family, who as refugees went to Haddam, Conn. in 1776 to escape the British of Long Island.[162] Capt. Joseph died in Conn. 1777, but his wife Phebe returned to East Hampton. The 1800 Census of East Hampton lists Phebe as head of a household.

Family records list Joseph's wife as Phebe Shaler. However, "Marriage Licenses issued by the Secretary of the Province of New York prior to 1784" has the following entry on page 114:

23rd Mch. 1761 Joseph Tillinghast and Phebe Mulford married.

Since Mulford belongs to a prominent and numerous East Hampton family, I am using Mulford rather than Shaler.

Capt. Joseph d. 1777 m. 1761 Phebe Mulford d. 1811.

Part III

Tillinghast Families of Sussex England

When Pardon Tillinghast left Sussex in 1643, he had three brothers, John, bapt. 1625; Benjamin, bapt. 1629; and Charles, bapt. 1634. In addition, he had two cousins, Benjamin, bapt. 1643; and John, bapt. 1651, both sons of John, who was brother to Pardon's father.

I have secured family data on only one i.e. John. His record was furnished by Horace Tillinghast of Sussex, a descendant, supplemented by records from the Worshipful Company of Iron mongers, to which this family belonged.

Since John,[3] and Pardon,[3] descend from the John,[1] I shall repeat his family record even though already given in Part I.

Appendix

This Appendix contains corrections on the information already printed; new information on family records; and new families not formerly tabulated.

Clarke Jr. Tillinghast family (see page 40).

Mrs. Ruth McCowen, daughter of Thomas Andrew, sent in the following information:

Of the four sons of Clarke Jr., Frank and Clarke remained in R.I. and lived on the old 320 acre Tillinghast homestead. Neither one ever married, and both are buried in the Tillinghast cemetery there.

Thomas Andrew, the youngest of the four, and the only one that married, went with his brother, John Browne to Loup Co., Nebraska. They came by train and not by covered wagon, as stated in the news item (see page 40). Thomas Andrew sold his farm in Loup Co., Nebraska to his brother John Browne, and went to Mississippi. From Mississippi, he went to Elida, New Mexico. In 1915 John sold his farm in Loup Co., and joined his brother in Elida, New Mexico. He died there in 1935.

Son of Pardon Jr. and Mary Keech married Elizabeth Taber. His son, Capt. Joseph Jr. reported in Long Island in 1761, marks the necessary link to the first Pardon. This record of Joseph, is not in agreement with the data given for Joseph (see p. 15). He married Elizabeth Taber, not Margaret. In addition to daughter, Elizabeth, 1716-1770, he also had a son, Joseph who married in 1761 Phebe Mumford. (Family records compiled by Frank Nash Tillinghast).
